HEAVY DAMAGES ASKED.

Christian P. Guber filed a suit in common pleas court yesterday morning against the Berger Manufacturing company to recover damages amounting to $18,250 for injuries the plaintiff received while in the employ of the defendant company. The plaintiff avers that when in the employ of the defendant company that he was compelled to work with his assistant at certain machines and machinery which were under the supervision of Foreman Charles Haines and on May 6, 1908 were engaged in operating a machine known as a "corner breaker" and while thus performing his duties found it necessary to change the dies. While holding said dies with his left hand said machinery, without his fault or knowledge, was set in motion and the die descended upon his left hand practically severing it at the wrist, making amputation necessary. He further says that the accident was brought about through the carelessness of the defendant company in allowing and permitting the machine to be run out of repair. As a result of the accident the plaintiff says that he has been crippled and maimed for life and asks the court in his petition to allow him damages in the sum of $18,250 and the costs of the suit. Attorneys Webber & Turner represent the plaintiff.

Wolford is nineteen years old and pleaded guilty to the charge of highway robbery. W. E. Shoemaker, of this city, being his victim. The application was taken under advisement by the court until Monday when it will be decided whether it is deemed advisable to impanel a special jury.

The plaintiff says that on June 3, 1907, sixteen promissory notes were executed by the defendants, Louis and Fanny Moskovitz, which were due at certain intervals. In return the plaintiff received chattel mortgages. In the second cause the plaintiff says that in order to secure payment of said notes the defendants delivered a chattel mortgage, the chattel property being a piano. In the third cause the plaintiff avers that the defendants with the intent to defraud them in the collection of the notes delivered two warranty deeds by which they pretended to convey to defendant Bertha Markowitz some real estate, upon which the defendant, "The Alliance Building & Loan company is alleged to have interest by the way of a mortgage. # FAIR OF 1908

Is Credited as Being the Most Successful In Years

TIRED BUT HAPPY LOT

Friday was the last day of one of the most successful fairs in the history of Stark county, and while the crowd was not nearly as large as was anticipated, the large attendance of the two preceding days were enough to equalize the admission receipts. There would be little reason, when the success of the present fair is considered, for the Stark County Agricultural Society to discontinue holding this annual event, as has been rumored about the city.

Friday's attendance was in striking contrast to the monster gathering of Thursday. The crowd was not a corporal's guard compared to the record crowd of the day before. Exhibitors and fairs waited about listlessly for the time to disband, pack up and plod their weary way homeward. Tired housewives busied themselves in putting things in shape and the men occupied their time in preparing the live stock for the weary journey over the dusty roads. At 5 o'clock the grounds began to assume the "deserted village" aspect, and the long procession began to file silently out of the gates.

Droves of excited horses, herds of lowing cattle, flocks of timid sheep, made up the vanguard of the homeward parade, while in the rear followed the farm wagons, containing the chickens and ducks, and other exhibits. Most of the spectators had preceded them, and when the last vehicle had filed through the gate, the fair of 1908 had passed into history.

GET HORSE MEAT IN SAUSAGE FACTORY

Cleveland, Sept. 25.—Four men were arraigned in police court Friday, charged with dealing in horse meat as beef. Two were accused of buying the meat from a rendering factory and two are charged with selling it. They entered pleas of not guilty. The cases were continued to October 14.

The alleged sellers gave their names as Peter Peets, former butcher, 3535 Broadway, and Joseph Guehan, tea and coffee salesman, 3603 Broadway. The others gave their names as Fred Planicka, 3302 West 52d, and Joseph Muzika, 3373 West 56th, proprietors of a sausage factory.

The last two are accused of purchasing meat that hasn't the city health department's stamp. Dr. C. W. Eddy, chief of the food inspection division, charges the men knew they were buying horse meat.

WORST DROUTH IN FIFTY YEARS

According to some of the oldest Stark county farmers who visited the fair this week, the drouth which we are now experiencing is the most severe in fifty years. A drouth much worse than the present one, took place in the early fifties in which no rain of any extent fell between Decoration day and September. Not since then has the ground and crops been in such a parched condition. Rain has been predicted for the past few weeks, but none has been forthcoming. Roads all over the county are covered with dust inches deep, and on account of the inconveniences of vehicle traveling, the attendance at the fair was much lower than it would have been with the highways in better condition.

WOMAN TARRD AND FEATHERED

New Philadelphia, Sept. 26.—Christian Welsley, 70, and his housekeeper, Miss Harriett Martin, 50, were attacked by four masked men at their home near Wainright, seven miles south of here, Thursday night.

Miss Martin was stripped of her clothing tied to the ground and then tarred and feathered. Tar was poured down the neck of Welsley's shirt, but he was not treated to feathers.

The attack was made at about 8:30, when the couple was at work 100 yards from the house, sorting potatoes by lantern light. The men jumped suddenly upon them, stifled their cries and then proceeded to strip the woman. They did not speak, and no motive is known for the act. There is no clue to their identity.

Miss Martin has been housekeeper for the Welsley family for about 30 years. Mrs. Welsley was away on a visit at the time of the attack.
